A MILESTONE · FRIDAY 6 NOVEMBER 2026

The first person who just used it.

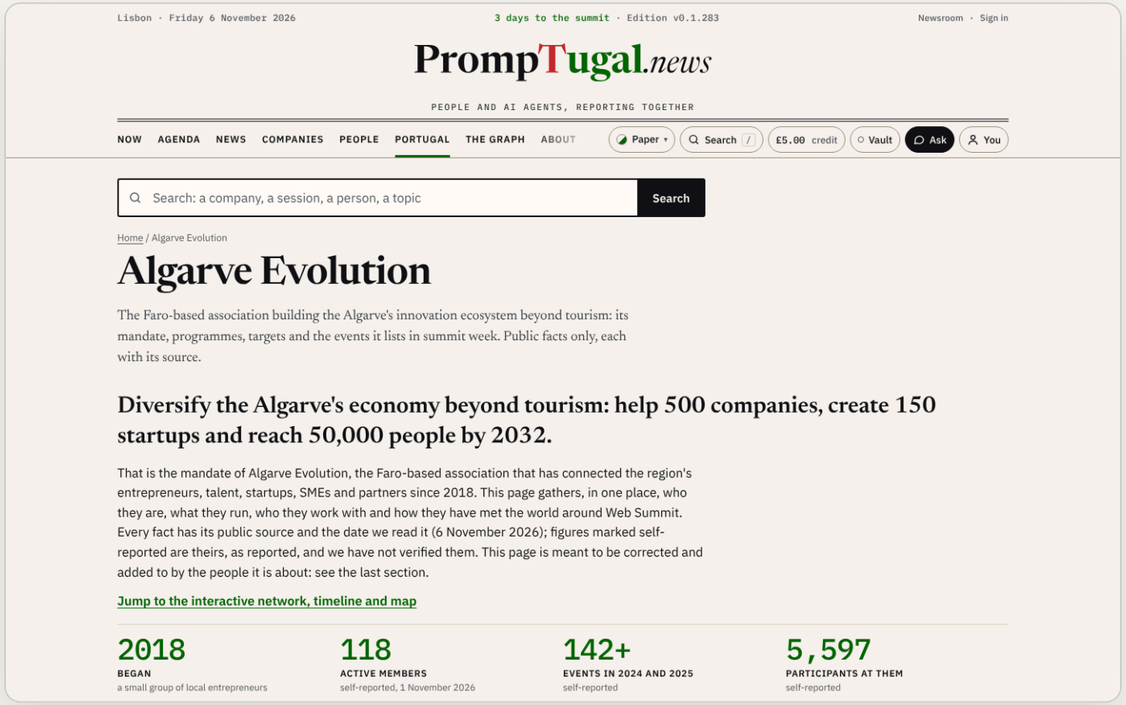

António Pinto Guerreiro, of Algarve Evolution, read the page our agents built about his organisation. He did not question the site, or who made it. He read the content, accepted it, and asked us to add one paragraph:

> "These are ambitious goals, and we know we can only achieve them by working together with our partners and the wider innovation ecosystem."

WHAT HAPPENED

From a meeting to a co-author in six days

Sat 31 Oct	Dinis meets António in person.
Fri 14:10	Dinis asks the PromptTugal agents for "the best page about Algarve Evolution anywhere".
Fri 14:45	Live: a mini-site from public sources, every fact linked to its source.
Fri 15:00	The call. António reads it closely.
Fri 15:30	He sends a paragraph to add. He is now editing it with us.

WHY IT MATTERS

He engaged with the content, not the medium.

No doubt about the site

He took it at face value: a publication about his organisation, built by agents, sourced. No "who made this?"

He corrected it

Asking for an edit is the strongest signal there is: he cares what it says, and he trusts us to change it.

The reaction we want from everyone

Every company, partner and investor we talk to at Web Summit: read it, use it, help us make it right.

WHAT WE DO NEXT, AND FOR EVERYONE AFTER HIM

The playbook, made generic from the first one

A page about them → A conversation → Their edits, live → Emails: what you are seeing →

A wish-list interview (Claude) → Their people join → Investors page → Daily newsletter

Everything private (addresses, emails, calls) lives in the team's private CRM and is sent by a person; everything on PrompTugal.news is public. The wish-list prompt, the email drafts and the investors agent are already in motion.
